The pensioners, the first the city has removed from service, assembled in Stable A. Avenue C. and East Seventeenth street, chartly before noon. Some of the very oldest were given seats of honor, right where the Mayor could see them from his place in the flag-draped grandstand. Soon Mayor Gaynor chugged up in the famous green car and there was a well directed wheer, led by a selected individual, who there after showed the proper parts to appland during the various speeches.

Before Mayor Gaynor began his speech he passed among the veterans, shedding his wonted brightness. Choice gems from the philosophers given the favored pensioners with his customary brilliancy, and the
